Key Findings

• Attrition (18.7%) is concentrated in lower-satisfaction, high-overtime and lower-salary-band employees.

• Long-tenured employees without recent promotions form a distinct flight-risk group.

• Compensation scales with level, education and experience; premium markets carry a location uplift.

• Pay-for-performance holds: higher ratings map to higher pay and more promotions.

• Customer Support and Operations show the weakest engagement and highest attrition.

Top Priorities

• Retention programme for lower salary bands in high-attrition departments.

• Overtime caps and workload rebalancing in Engineering, Operations and Support.

• Structured career ladders and a no-promotion watchlist.

• Market-benchmarked pay for the lowest two bands.

• Monthly attrition monitoring via the executive dashboard.
